There is a problem with your name and/or taxpayer identification number (TIN) on your 2018 tax return

Please provide information to resolve this issue

Your 2018 tax return shows a different name and/or Social Security number (SSN) from the information provided by the Social Security Administration (SSA).

This can happen if you used your spouse's last name, changed your name, or if there was a simple typographical error.

To receive your 2018 tax refund, please complete and return the attached Response form.

If you recently updated your name with the SSA or obtained your SSN, and are filing a federal tax return for the first time, it may take several weeks to correct this issue.

In the future, be sure to notify the SSA of any name changes so your Social Security payments are applied correctly.

Otherwise, no action is required at this time.

Your identifying information

Your name as shown on your tax return:

RODRIGO E MESSIAS

Your Social Security number as shown on your tax return:

876-94-7021

What you need to do

To correct or explain the difference, complete the Response form on pages 3 and 4 of this notice and mail it to us in the envelope we provided.

Next steps

Once we receive your Response form and verify the information you provided, we'll send your refund unless you owe other tax or debts we're required to collect.
